

THE EDITOR
SAYS—

Division Engineer Towse made a very strong recommendation to the engineers at Jefferson City to have Tanner Street paved out of such money as the City of Sikeston might be entitled to out of the $12,000,000 road fund provided by the Federal Government to assist the unemployed. This was sent to Jefferson City last week. In the same recommendation was a proposal to build a sewer from the corner of the Robinson Lumber Co. to the ditch east of the city in order to carry off surplus water that stands on the pavement to the depth of 6 inches for an hour or two after heavy rains. In the mail Saturday came instructions from the state headquarters to survey and make an estimate for the high-way sewer and nothing was said about Tanner street, the most traveled street in the city not already paved. If the folks at the headquarters wish to spend this money on a sewer to drain the biggest puddle in the city they will build a sewer from the corner by the Methodist Church to the west ditch that will drain that entire section of the city and at the same time keep ten times as much water from their SF farm to market road that leads into Sikeston over the street by the Methodist church. There is no more water on Highway 60 through Sikeston than is on other streets and over the yards, but all drains off in a short time. Sooner or later Sikeston will build a system of surface sewers, so why spend this money on a proposition of a selfish sewer when a paved street will be with us always.

Of course we saw the Broadway Vanities. Apparently there was not an ounce of surplus flesh on any of them, and could they shake their skinny legs and shimmy their lissome bodies? Oh, boy!

We never believed May West intentionally "Done Him Wrong," so am going to see first hand whether we think she is no angel.

Mussolini is covering a good deal of territory when he wants Italy to be first on earth and in skies. However, it is all right here.

Billy Sunday is to be back in Cape Girardeau for another drag for souls and money. Wonder if he remembers The Standard editor!

Another way to raise more revenue to carry on the affairs of state, county and city, is to assess the property of corporations for the value they place on their property for rate making and not their estimate for tax purposes. Take the property of the Missouri Utilities Co. in Sikeston, for instance. Before the Supreme Court of Missouri, Mr. Kelso, their attorney, is on record that they have property rights in Sikeston to the amount of $199,000. All the visible assets they have in Sikeston is their distribution system, an auxiliary engine that doesn't run, an interest in a strip of high line, office equipment, and a mighty fine lot of employees. We would like for some county or city official to let us know just what assessment value is placed on the holdings of the Missouri Utilities Co. in Sikeston. This doesn't include the ice plant owned and operated by this corporation.

We would again like to call the attention of Southeast Missouri State Senators and members of the Legislature to the fairness of a general sales tax when it comes to raising revenue to carry on the affairs of State. Each one of you know of hundreds in your own community who pay not one cent of taxes of any sort and criticize and cuss the Government for conditions throughout the land. We wish you to pay little attention to paid attorneys and lobbyists who have axes to grind, and think of the folks at home who do now pay most all of the taxes and give us a sales tax that would force every one who eats and buys to pay a little of the tax that is now so oppressive to the middle man who cannot hide his little property. This sales tax we would have passed on the consumer and not be a burden to the retailer. In fairness to all spread the tax to reach all.

The past few weeks the editor has received letters from numerous young men and women of Sikeston who are in school in distant parts of the country. These letters were greatly appreciated and this paragraph is to acknowledge receipt of same.

Those of our farmers who are seeking finances from the Federal Government to take care of farm mortgages must bear in mind that no money is loaned on farm lands in drainage districts that have outstanding bonds.

The funeral of Alfred Marion Hardy, better known as "Shorty," was preached by Rev. Orear at the Albritton Undertaking Parlors, Sunday morning. It was a good funeral sermon and Rev. Orear had a good subject. This young man had been an employee of the Malone Theatre for more than ten years, and a trusted employee. He was known as truthful, honest and honorable in his dealings and while he had not laid up much of this world's goods, had made a name and practiced deeds while on earth that will insure him a welcome in the hereafter. It was better to have left behind a good name than riches.

AQUEDUCT RELIEVES
JERUSALEM DROUTH

Jerusalem.—The aqueduct constructed by Pontius Pilate shortly before Christ was crucified is in use again to relieve a water shortage in the Old City of Jerusalem. Engineers say it is as effective today as it was 1900 years ago when the Roman procurator built it to cope with just such a drouth as exists today.

Bulldogs Defeated by Chaffee Last Friday

The Chaffee high school Red Devils won their second game of the season last Friday night on the local field when they defeated the Bulldogs 13 to 0. Both of the Chaffee scores were made in the third quarter. In only one quarter, the first, did the Bulldogs outplay the visitors. The Red Devils took the second and third quarters by large margins and nosed out in the final quarter with a slight lead. At no time did the Bulldogs seriously threaten to score.

Five of the Sikeston first string men were not in the game for various reasons. Included in these were the quarterback, fullback, left end, left guard, and the center. A noticeable failure of the Bulldogs to furnish their backs the proper interference on running plays probably accounted for the lack of their usual gains. The majority of the Chaffee gains were due to good ball totting by the backs as they had no exceptional interference. The Sikeston lads merely failed to check this destructive open field running.

The Bulldogs are scheduled to play at New Madrid next Friday but this game may be switched to Sikeston under the floodlights. Final arrangements for this game have not been completed.

The opening kickoff went to the Sikeston 20 yard line and Bennett returned to the Sikeston 38 yard line. After gaining about 2 yards Sikeston punted to the Chaffee 18 yard line. Chaffee advanced 8 yards and punted to the Sikeston 40 yard line and Donnell returned 25 yards and punted from the Chaffee 24 yard line over the goal line. Chaffee took the ball on their own 20 yard mark and moved up eight yards as the first quarter ended.

After advancing 16 yards more Cline fumbled and Sikeston recovered on the 50 yard mark. Sikeston moved up 4 yards and Bennett's punt was partly blocked and Chaffee recovered on their 46 yard mark.

After advancing 10 yards Morgan fumbled and Sikeston recovered on their 45 yard line. After moving 20 yards Sikeston lost to ball to Chaffee on the Chaffee 35 yard line. Chaffee advanced 50 yards to the Sikeston 15 yard mark as the half ended.

The kickoff went to the Chaffee 22 yard line and Harrell returned to the 48 yard line. On a mixture of line plays Chaffee moved 52 yards to the goal line for the first touchdown. The pass for the extra point was not counted because the Chaffee passer let his knee touch the ground after he had possession of the ball. The kickoff went down to Greer on the 22 yard line and he was downed on the 38 yard line. Sikeston lost 10 yards and their punt was blocked and downed on the Sikeston 30 yard line. Chaffee again closed the gap and scored. The running play went over for the extra point and ended the scoring. The kickoff went to the Sikeston 5 yard line and Donnell returned 13 yards. Sikeston advanced 3 yards and the third quarter ended. The punt went to the Sikeston 45 yard line and was downed on the Sikeston 42 yard line. Chaffee gained 7 yards and lost the ball on downs on the Sikeston 35 yard line. Sikeston moved 3 yards and lost the ball on downs on the Sikeston 38 yard line. Chaffee gained but 9 yards and again the ball went to Sikeston on the 29 yard line. A pass was incomplete and Donnell gained 4 yards at center. Another pass was intercepted by Allen on the Sikeston 48 yard line. Chaffee fumbled and Sikeston recovered on their own 48 yard line. Sikeston gained 4 yards and a pass was intercepted on the Chaffee 35 yard line and was downed on the 44 yard line. Chaffee gained 13 yards and the punt went over the goal line. Sikeston took the ball on their own 20 yard mark and gained 11 yards and a pass was intercepted on the Sikeston 45 yard line and down on the 38 yard line. Chaffee gained 19 yards as the game ended with the ball on the Sikeston 20 yard stripe.

First downs: Sikeston 4; Chaffee 15. Yards gained in scrimmage: Sikeston 59; Chaffee 201. Passes: Sikeston, 3 incomplete, 2 intercepted, 1 good for 2 yards; Chaffee, 1 good for 6 yards. Punts: Sikeston punted 5 times for 92 yards, 2 were blocked; Chaffee punted 2 times for 32 yards. Penalties: Sikeston 1 for five yards; Chaffee 1 for 5 yards.

The lineups were as follows: Sikeston Pos. Chaffee Pos. Alliston lb Roberts lb Cunningham lg Allen rg Briggs rt Cannon qb Harrell lbh Cline rlb Morgan rrb Greer rb Frazier

Substitutions: Sikeston, Hartly for Middleton, Wilson for Bennett, Middleton for Conrad, Hartly for Middleton, Middleton for Conrad, Conrad for Middleton, and Wilson for Carroll. Chaffee, Gettings for Cunningham, Ormsbee for McBroom, and Welter for Morgan.

Diehlstadt Basket Squad
Hit Light by Graduation

E. E. Grader, coach of the girls' basketball team of Diehlstadt high school, was probably hit the lightest by graduation of any coach in the surrounding country, having lost but one regular from the line-up. Miss Gae Spencer, a guard, will be the only one Coach Grader has to look for a successor to.

For forwards, Grader has the already famous Malone sisters, Jo and Gay. Jo was being making the all-star team for the past two years, while Gay was named last season. Elsie Mae Cillier and Halie Suter will hold down center positions, with Christine Collier as the remaining guard.

A squad of about thirty girls are out now for practice, but they will soon be cut down to about 18 later. Five games have been scheduled, the first to be in November, but the rest of the schedule has not been completed.

Crader is a bit weak on reserve material at the center positions, having only Bonnie Inman to use from last year's lettered girls. His reserve guards include Helen McClanahan, Bessie Burton and Anita L. bb. Buehah Sneed and Nina Michael lettered last season as forwards and will probably be there this year.

CHURCH APPRECIATION
DAY TO BE OBSERVED IN NAZARENE CHURCHES

Church Appreciation Day will be observed in the 2,000 churches of the Nazarene tomorrow, Rev. C. F. Transue, pastor of the Sikeston Church of the Nazarene, announced. Certain features of the history of the church will be emphasized on this fourth Silver Jubilee Anniversary celebration Sunday.

The official beginning of the church was twenty-five years ago at Pilot Point, Texas, where the Pentecostal Churches of America and the Holiness Church of Christ became a part of the present organization. Since then, the church rolls have grown to contain more than 100,000 names, with about 3,500 ministers, and foreign missionary work extending around the world.

Progress attained in the quarter century covers a wide field, now operating 2,000 churches scattered throughout the United States and Canada. These churches, parsonages, as well as other property of the church, now have a value of 13 1-2 million dollars. Schools and colleges owned by the church account for 1 1-2 million dollars. The revenue of the church totals 3 1-2 million dollars annually.

Among the institutions maintained by the church are six colleges, two junior colleges and Bible schools. These points of learning are: Eastern Nazarene College, Wollaston, Mass.; Trevecca College, Nashville, Tenn.; Olivet College, Bethany, Okla.; Northwest Nazarene College, Nampa, Idaho; Pasadena College, Pasadena, Calif.; Bresee College, Hutchinson, Kan., and Northern Bible College, Red Deer, Alberta, Canada, the latter two being Bible schools.

In addition, the church operates three hospitals—Bresee Hospital, China; Raleigh Pitkin Memorial Hospital, Africa; Nazarene Sanitarium, Nampa, Idaho, as well as Rest Cottages at Kansas City and Pilot Point, Texas.

From the church publishing house in Kansas City twenty periodicals are issued with an annual circulation of 8 million copies. These consist of eight weeklies, which includes the Herald of Holiness, the official church paper; 5 monthlies and 7 quarterlies. The publishing house is valued at more than 1-4 million dollars and its annual sales amount to another quarter million annually. Mr. M. Lunn is manager of the publishing house.

Quite appropriately, the trade mark of the Nazarene Publishing House typifies purposes and aims of the church as well as its work of co-ordination in many branches of endeavor. This design is a lamp resting upon an open Bible illuminating the globe with the slogan, "The Full Gospel to the Whole World by the Printed Page."

The church has, since its founding, been particularly interested in young people's activities. In 1908, there were 523 members in various young men's and young women's societies. Then in 1923, the Nazarene Young People's Society was organized with 12,768 members and it became recognized as a department of the general church. Since then the membership has grown to about 45,000. Spiritual objectives are outlined and all forms of worldliness are taboo. The Rev. D. Shelby Corlett, Kansas City, is general secretary.

INFANT DIED

Prisoners in Stoddard
Jail Riot and Fire Beds

Bloomfield, Oct. 27.—Evidently knowing Sheriff George Barham was away deer hunting, prisoners in the county jail staged a fruitless, but damaging riot Thursday afternoon.

Virtually all of the bedding in the bastille was burned by the prisoners, who slammed doors and banged bars of the jail as smoke poured from the brick structure, which is located one block east of the court house. Chief Deputy Sheriff Les Bollinger was out in the county serving papers at the time. Mrs. Barham, wife of the sheriff, who was in the portion of the building which they use as their residence, remained until the deputy returned, as the demonstration was at its height.

It is presumed the prisoners, all men, sought to frighten Mrs. Barham into opening doors of the jail, so that a general jail delivery might have been effected. There were 15 prisoners in jail at the time.

Two of the 15 were believed by Deputy Bollinger to have led the outbreak, and both were placed in cells. The prisoners, including two Negroes, had been in the "bull pen" when the riot started. All the 15 were forced to sleep almost without bedding last night. They were also made to clean the charred mattresses and blankets from the jail.

Sheriff Barham left early Thursday for a hunt in the Ozarks. He has not yet returned.

Women's Club Federation to Meet Here in '34

The Ninth District, Missouri Federation of Woman's Clubs, in session at Poplar Bluff last week, selected Sikeston as the place to hold their next annual convention.

Mrs. Nelle Smith of Poplar Bluff was named president of the Ninth District, Missouri Federation of Women's Clubs. She succeeds Mrs. C. L. Joslyn, Charleston. Mrs. C. E. Carleton of Farmington was named first vice president and Mrs. O. L. Spencer, Benton, second vice president. Other officers are appointed.

In her address to the assembly, Mrs. Joslyn expressed her pleasure at the growth of the federation during the past year. She recalled the fact that the ninth district has four representatives on the state board. The district president attends. Mrs. K. C. Weber, Farmington, is state chairman of conservation and roadside beautification; Mrs. H. F. Emerson, Morley, is state chairman of legislation, and the recording secretary is a member of the state organization.

One of the high spots in the session was awarding prizes for art contest, which was in charge of Mrs. H. P. Kinsolving of Malden. First prize was awarded to Mrs. Ada Pulze Thost of Fredericktown, for her picture "The Canal Scene," a water color. Honorable mention was to Mrs. Cora Erwin Adkins of Malden. Her entry was a tapestry, "Girls at the Fountain." More than 40 entries were viewed by hundreds of persons during the exhibition which was at the First Presbyterian Church.

Distinguished Educator
to Address Lions Club

President Parker, of the Cape Girardeau Teachers College, has been invited and has accepted an invitation to address the Lions Club, and others interested in education, the subject of his address. This will be an open meeting and will be held in the banquet hall of the Hotel Marshall at noon, Wednesday, November 1.

The luncheon will cost 50 cents per plate and if you will be present and not a member of the Lions Club, it will be well to advise Ralph Anderson in order to receive plates can be arranged for. Much agitation throughout the State is going on owing to lack of finances to properly carry on school work and every parent should be interested.

Motorists Treated Here
After Auto Wrecks

W. A. Dooley, of St. Louis, is in the hospital here suffering from a scalp wound and several fractured ribs received when his car was sideswiped by another machine about two miles north of Benton, Sunday night.

Dooley, who is a representative of the Glidden Paint & Varnish Co., was enroute south at the time of the accident. The other car was driven by Charles V. Cox of Mt. Olive, Miss., who was accompanied by his wife. Both were seriously injured. Mrs. Cox died at 7:20 Monday morning at the Southeast Missouri Hospital, Cape Girardeau, where they were taken from the accident. Cox suffered a fractured skull.

Bern Cramer and Ollie Miller of Poplar Bluff who were riding in the Dooley car were also treated here for slight injuries. At this time no explanation of the accident has been offered.

Man and Wife In Hospital
H. W. Sanders and wife of Madison, Wis., are in the Sikeston Hospital with numerous cuts and bruises following a collision with a car occupied by negroes. The wreck occurred about 7 miles south of Sikeston Sunday afternoon at 6:30 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Sanders, who were enroute to Balboa in the Canal Zone, crashed into the side of the negro's car when the latter drove directly across the highway. The accident was unavoidable.

Neither Sanders nor his wife are seriously injured. Both cars were badly wrecked.

The most outstanding player on either team was the Charleston quarterback, Sam Cox Goddin. Doing most of the Charleston's ball carrying, pass throwing and tackling, Goddin seems slated for a berth on the all-conference team. Gaines and McLane did most of the ball totting for the Tigers. McLane did the entire punting for the Tigers, punting 12 times for 449 yards, averaging 37 5-12 yards per kick. Bynum averaged 35-59 yards per kick, punting 9 times for 320 yards.

Central outgained the Jays, 141 yards to 104 yards. Charleston lost 31 yards to 6 for Central. The Blue Jays, never showing any passing in the former games, attempted 14, completed 7 for 77 yards. The Tigers attempted 3, completed 2 for 24 yards and intercepted two. Central returned punts for a total of 99 yards to 49 for Charleston. Central registered 11 first downs to 9 for Charleston. Cape suffered 65 yards in penalties to 10 for Charleston.

AUXILIARY NOTES
The American Legion Auxiliary will hold their regular meeting Friday evening, November 3rd, at the home of Mrs. Hubert Walton. All members are urged to come.

Sometimes as often as once a month the Memphis Chamber of Commerce welcomes newcomers to the city with breakfast. The idea, officials say, is to make new additions to the business and social life of Memphis glad they came there.

Mrs. I. H. Dunaway will be pleasantly located at the home of Mrs. Jennie Sikes where she will be pleased to see her friends.

FIRST MOTOR CARAVAN IN CHINA STARTS ON
THOUSAND-MILE TRIP

Peiping, Oct. 28.—After several years' preparation and the investment of several hundred thousand dollars in equipment, the first motor caravan of the Sulyuan-Sinkiang Bus Company has set forth on the 1,000 mile journey over China's old trade route.

As old as the history of China, this overland trail has seen the passing of camel caravans through the sand dunes and across waste land to the distant capital of Chinese Turkestan. Although attempts have been made to blaze a motor trail, this is the first sound commercial venture to the southwest.

At the start ceremony was held at which Gov. Fu Tsoyi and his staff were in attendance, while a high official traveled with the party to afford better protection against the various tax stations and against wandering bands of troops and bandits.

It is hoped to get the fleet of five American motor cars through in 14 days. Many sacks of mail, seven tons of cargo and 20 passengers filled the cars. The fare for the journey is $385.

FATHER

H. O. Anderson was his name,
To us it was so dear,
And how we have missed him
This long lonesome year.

Dear Father lies beneath the sod,
Though he is just at rest,
Of all the men on earth,
God knows we loved him best.

Father was crossing the railroad,
With a load of wheat on his truck,
The train sprang upon him,
And he was fatally struck.

For several yards it dragged him,
Dear people, Oh how sad,
And when I saw him suffering,
I thought it couldn't be Dad.

They took him to the hospital,
He was burned and injured in his head,
Only a few minutes elapsed,
And my dear father was dead.

Dear old October seventeenth,
And all with eyes full of tears,
May God in Heaven help him
And we'll meet in the coming years.

Sadly missed by family—Violet Anderson.

Giving flowers to be placed on a person's grave bespeaks a feeling of admiration and respect for the departed one. Likewise, saying nice things about a person after they've shuffled off this earth is all good and well. But the trouble of it is, the person for whom the flowers are given, or the nice things are said, can't enjoy the beauty of the flowers or can't hear what a fine person folks thought he was. If you have bouquets to give or think something nice about a person, give them the flowers or tell them what you think before they die off. They'll appreciate them more and you'll feel a lot better over it.—Malden Merit.

One thing that ought to be frowned on and discouraged by every school superintendent, is the practice that has been promoted by a few jewelry houses—that of selling class rings. High powered salesmen are sent out to high schools where they are usually given opportunity to talk to the members of the Senior class. The prospective graduates are in substance told by these salesmen that the Seniors of every wide awake school in the country are ordering rings and that it is next to impossible to have any social or class rating, without a ring. They usually succeed in selling most members of the class. Those who don't readily sign up are made to feel that they will not have quite the proper social standing unless they go along and "get in the swim" with other members who have ordered. The result is that these salesmen usually leave with a hundred per cent order from the class. The rings they sell cost more than they are really worth. The salesman gets a commission of about 50 per cent and consequently full value is not received by the student-purchaser. The sacrifice that many parents have to make in order to keep their children in school is too great to have non-essential costs like these added.—Bloomfield Vindicator.

In his more than 30 years experience as an undertaker in Charleston, F. D. Lair said the only person who ever entered his place of business and stated he was going to die and wanted him to handle the funeral, was Harry C. Smith, who died in a Cape Girardeau Hospital Sunday. What a God blessed feeling to know that death was just before you and not afraid. We didn't know Mr. Smith but he must have been a God fearing man to be ready and know death was at the door.

WHEN TIMES WERE HARD

A Texas paper recently interviewed one of its readers regarding his reaction to the present economic condition. Here is what the reader is alleged to have said: "Don't talk to me about hard times. I was born eight miles from a railroad, nine miles from a church, five miles from a schoolhouse, 885 miles from New York, 200 yards from a wash hole, 15 feet from a cornfield and 8,787 from Hongkong."

"Our nearest neighbors lived 2 miles away and they couldn't read or write. I never saw a suit of underwear until I was 17 years old, and that revelation didn't belong to anybody in our family. The only book in the house during my early childhood was a Bible and a catalogue somebody sent us. "There were twelve members in our family, but, you see, we had three rooms to live in, including a kitchen. We thought everybody else in the world had gravy and bread for breakfast, liver and cracklin' hocks for dinner, buttermilk and cornpone for supper, cause that's what we had—and liked it."

"Some of us wore brogan shoes occasionally in the winter time. We had nice white shirts for summer time use. We slept on straw ticks, and pillows were not thought of or required. I didn't know that money would rattle until I was nearly grown. Father got hold of two good half dollars at the same time, and let us hear them rattle. Taxes were not higher, but harder to pay than now."

"We owned two kerosene lamps, neither of which had a chimney. Our house wasn't ceiled, but two of our rooms had lofts in them. We had a glass window in our 'company' room. Our nicest piece of furniture was a homemade rocking chair. Our beds were of the slat or tight-rope variety. The 'trundle bed' took care of all the youngsters under five years of age, and it stayed full all the time."

"We went to school two or three months in the year, but not in a bus. We attended church once a month, but not in a car; we used the two-mule wagon. We dressed up on Sundays, but not in silks or satins. We made our own lye hominy; distilled our own lye from our own ash hopper. We drank sassafras tea and never had a yearning for coffee."

"We sopped our own molasses; we ate our own meat; we considered rice a delicacy for only the preacher to eat; we had heard of cheese of course, but never saw any; we got a stick of candy and three raisins for Christmas and were happy; we loved pa and ma and were never hungry, enjoyed going naked, didn't want much, excepted nothing. And that's why our so-called hard times ain't hard on me."

Having read the above, Ed P. Crowe of the Dexter Statesman remembered some of his early experiences with hard times, thus: "Which reminds me somewhat of our own childhood. We were fifteen years old when we found out that people ate the pork chops as well as the gravy. We got our first sto' bought clothes about this time. Previously, they cut pa's clothes down for John, and John's down for Bob and what Bob left, we wore. Memory paints an adequate shirt with an arrow-pointed tip at the lower end of the bosom to hold the drawers up as union suits and such like were then unknown. When the shirt got to us to claim and wear, it had this written in ink on it: "1880, E. M. C. (that was pa). 1881, J. M. C. 1882, C. R. C. 1883, R. A. C. Ed gets it next year."

But even then, we were not so pioneerish as Dwight H. Brown, who plowed the hill-sides of Stoddard county in his shirt tail till he was 16 and then he had to be lassoed and hog-tied to get on him his first pants and pair of shoes, and is now Secretary of State of Missouri. At least this is the story the "First Settlers" here tell of him, and it sounds reasonable though it may be legendary and apocryphal.—Fredericktown Democrat.

DUNKLIN SHERIFF HURT IN WRECK NEAR HERE

AT THE INN OF THE SALT MERCHANTS

London, the largest city in the world, is said by historians to have been built because of the salt trade.

During the earliest days of European history salt was sent from England to the Continent. Cheshire and Worcestershire provided salt for Britain and Gaul, and the route for its transportation crossed the country in a southeasterly direction crossing the Thames which was then very shallow at a ford where Westminster now stands.

Often the sluggish stream was too swollen by floods for the salt caravans to cross and an inn to accommodate the salt merchants was built in order that they might tarry until the waters subsided. From this humble beginning the great city of London resulted.

Salt was used as a medium of exchange in many ancient countries. The Mogul conquerors of India made decrees thousands of years ago regulating the standard of salt that was used for money. In Asia and Africa cakes of salt were frequently used for money and up until comparatively recent times, salt was a medium of exchange in the Shan markets of Indo-China.

Besides its value as a medium of barter, salt in days gone by was a powerful developer of commerce. Being essential to life, and unavailable to tribes remote from the sea from which the substance was obtained by evaporation, trade routes were early developed to provide for its transportation. For hundreds of years a caravan route was maintained between Palmyra and Syrian ports, and even today much of the caravan traffic in Sahara is largely in this precious commodity.

The oldest road in Italy is not the Appian Way, but the "Via Salaria" or the salt road, along which salt was anciently carried from the evaporating pits at Ostia to the Sabine territory.

MISSOURI HISTORY

THE DRAMATIC STORY OF DANIEL RALLS

Even at that time, Daniel Ralls was mortally ill, yet he insisted on being brought into that small room in the Missouri Hotel at St. Louis where the first legislature of the State of Missouri was meeting, and there took part in the election of Benton and Benton as the first two senators of the new State. His vote, cast in favor of the two men who won that election, was the last official act of his life, for he died not long afterwards in St. Louis on October 30, 1820, one hundred and thirteen years ago this week. The name of Daniel Ralls is perpetuated in Missouri history by Ralls county, which was named for him during the same session that witnessed his death.

One of the most important duties of the first General Assembly which assembled at St. Louis on September 18, 1820, was the election of the State's first two United States Senators. One place was practically assured to David Barton, who had been president of the convention which drafted the State's first Constitution. But the other senatorship was bitterly contested. Among the candidates fighting for the second place were Thomas Hart Benton, John B. C. Lucas, Henry Elliott, John Rice Jones and Nathaniel Cook.

Daniel Ralls, one of the representatives from what was then Pike county, was in favor of Barton and Benton for the senatorships, but about September 22, before the election, he was taken seriously ill and was unable to attend the sessions of the general Assembly. As events turned out, Barton had more than enough votes to win one of the places, but Benton had just barely enough votes to win the other position.

It was on Monday, October 2, 1820, at three p. m. that the two houses of the General Assembly met in joint session in the Missouri Hotel to hold the historic election. Benton's victory over his nearest opponent, Judge Lucas, seems to have depended primarily on getting one representative, Marie P. Leduc, a Frenchman from St. Louis, to vote for Benton instead of for Judge Lucas.

Daniel Ralls, unable for several days to attend the sessions because of sickness, insisted that day, on coming to vote at the election. According to the story of John F. Darby of St. Louis, Ralls was carried into the Legislative hall in his sick-bed by four stout Negro men, and after voting, was returned to his room in the Missouri Hotel where he died. But the contemporary newspapers give a slightly different version of the event:

"He insisted on being carried to the legislative hall, for the express purpose of voting for Colonel Benton and Judge Barton, as Senators for the State of Missouri in Congress. Leaning on the supporting arm of the friend who accompanied him, the dying patriot with a determined serious look, and in an energetic tone, said to him 'If I should faint in the House, endeavor to recover me there, and by no means take me out before I have given my vote.'"

When the vote was taken, both Leduc and Ralls were among the Benton voters. Twenty-seven votes were necessary for election, and Col. Benton received exactly twenty-seven. By such a narrow margin was the great statesman of Missouri, United States Senator for thirty years, first elected.

Daniel Ralls never again attended a session of the General Assembly after that dramatic election on October 2. According to some writers, he died almost immediately after casting his vote, but this assertion is not correct. Ralls lingered on until October 30, when he died at the home of Col. Benton. He was buried the next day in St. Louis at 4 o'clock, and the members of the General Assembly attended his funeral and resolved to wear black crepe on their arms for thirty days in his honor. On November 16, 1820, a bill was approved creating the county of Ralls from the county of Pike in honor of Daniel Ralls.

Ralls was a native of Virginia who moved to Kentucky and settled near Sharpsburg in Bath county. It is said that Ralls and his family moved to the Territory of Missouri in October, 1817, settling in St. Louis county, but moving a year later to what was then Pike county, near New London.

At the time of his election as a representative of Pike county in the first General Assembly, Ralls was said to be about thirty-five years old. It is probable that he had seen military service, for newspaper referred to him as "Captain." Ralls and his wife had five children, one of whom was John Ralls, a prominent lawyer of Ralls county.

FLOUR TOO HIGH; MANY GOOD SUBSTITUTES

The high cost of white flour, apparently unjustified, makes it necessary for many homes to seriously consider some good substitutes.

The family gardens and field crops produce and can supply these substitutes some of which are superior to flour as a health providing food.

Corn breads should be used as much as possible. Indian pudding, custards and fruits may be utilized for desserts, instead of cakes, pies and other foods requiring flour, according to nutritionists connected with University of Arkansas College of Agriculture.

Use sweet potatoes oftener. They furnish as valuable carbohydrates as bread does. Rice may be used as a substitute for flour. Above all, utilize dried beans and peas and peanuts in as many ways as possible. Beans and peas will take the place of bread and meat. Peanuts are bread, meat and potatoes, as far as food values are concerned.

Extension Circular No. 312, "The Preparation of Beans and Peas," tells how to use these economical foods. In any recipe which calls for dried beans, dried peas may be substituted. There is a great abundance of cowpeas, sweet potatoes, peanuts and rice in this state. They should be utilized to the fullest extent.

Extension Circular No. 197, recently revised, tells how to utilize rice in a great variety of ways. Extension Circular No. 122, which was revised in April gives suggestions for using sweet potatoes. By the use of these substitutes the excessive prices demanded now for white flour can be saved and this saving used to far greater advantage.

No one even attempts to justify the excessive prices demanded now for many of the necessities in the home. It appears that an ill-advised attempt is being made to increase the prices of necessities without waiting for a corresponding increase of income to justify higher prices.

TOMB OF MOSES REPORTED UNCOVERED ON MOUNT NEBO

Jerusalem, Oct. 27.—A stone alleged by early Christians to mark the tomb of Moses has been found by the Franciscan archeological expedition working on Mount Nebo.

The Bible states that Moses was buried on Mount Nebo after he had led the children of Israel within sight of the Promised Land. The ruins of a church dating from the fifth century has been found on the mountain. The last end of the church is said to go back to the fourth century.

This church, the archeologists say, was visited by St. Sylvia of Aquitaine an early Christian pilgrim, who wrote a description of it. The stone pointed out to St. Sylvia as the tomb of Moses was found in front of the pulpit.

Relieves Women's Pains

Here is an example of how Cardul has helped thousands of women: "I was very thin and pale," writes Mrs. F. H. Scott, of Roanoke, Va. "I suffered from weakness and a severe pain in my back. This pain unnerved me, and I did not feel like doing my work. I did not care to go places, and felt worn, tired, day after day. "My mother had taken Cardul, and on seeing my condition she advised me to try it. I have never regretted doing so. I took three bottles and it built me up. I gained in weight, my color was better and the pain left my back. I am stronger than I had been in some time." Cardul is sold by local druggists.

FARMER SAVES $20 BY MAKING THREE TELEPHONE CALLS

A farmer had 2,000 pounds of hogs to sell. He telephoned three dealers. The third dealer called offered the farmer a cent a pound more than the first, and a half cent more than the second. So he sold to the third dealer, obtaining the higher price. The amount earned by telephoning was $20—nearly the cost of his telephone for an entire year.

The Bureau of Fisheries has made a study of the problem of barnacles and finds that American shipping owners, including Uncle Sam, pay dearly for the tons of barnacles that attach themselves to vessel bottoms. A ship at sea from six to eight months accumulates a growth of from two to three inches, weighing from fifty to one hundred tons. The results are loss of speed, increased fuel consumption, delayed voyages, wear of machinery and drydock inactivity.

Division Engineer Towse made a very strong recommendation to the engineers at Jefferson City to have Tanner Street paved out of such money as the City of Sikeston might be entitled to out of the $12,000,000 road fund provided by the Federal Government to assist the unemployed. This was sent to Jefferson City last week. In the same recommendation was a proposal to build a sewer from the corner of the Robinson Lumber Co. to the ditch east of the city in order to carry off surplus water that stands on the pavement to the depth of 6 inches for an hour or two after heavy rains. In the mail Saturday came instructions from the state headquarters to survey and make an estimate for the high-way sewer and nothing was said about Tanner street, the most traveled street in the city not already paved. If the folks at the headquarters wish to spend this money on a sewer to drain the biggest puddle in the city they will build a sewer from the corner by the Methodist Church to the west ditch that will drain that entire section of the city and at the same time keep ten times as much water from their SF farm to market road that leads into Sikeston over the street by the Methodist church. There is no more water on Highway 60 through Sikeston than is on other streets and over the yards, but all drains off in a short time. Sooner or later Sikeston will build a system of surface sewers, so why spend this money on a proposition of a selfish sewer when a paved street will be with us always.

Of course we saw the Broadway Vanities. Apparently there was not an ounce of surplus flesh on any of them, and could they shake their skinny legs and shimmy their lonesome bodies? Oh, boy!

We never believed May West intentionally "Done Him Wrong," so am going to see first hand whether we think she is no angel.

Mussolini is covering a good deal of territory when he wants Italy to be first on earth and in skies. However, it is all right here.

Billy Sunday is to be back in Cape Girardeau for another drag for souls and money. Wonder if he remembers The Standard editor!

Another way to raise more revenue to carry on the affairs of state, county and city, is to assess the property of corporations for the value they place on their property for rate making and not their estimate for tax purposes. Take the property of the Missouri Utilities Co. in Sikeston, for instance. Before the Supreme Court of Missouri, Mr. Kelso, their attorney, is on record to the effect they have property rights in Sikeston to the amount of $199,000. All the visible assets they have in Sikeston is their distribution system, an auxiliary engine that doesn't run, an interest in a strip of high line, office equipment, and a mighty fine lot of employees. We would like for some county or city official to let us know just what assessment value is placed on the holdings of the Missouri Utilities Co. in Sikeston. This doesn't include the ice plant owned and operated by this corporation.

We would again like to call the attention of Southeast Missouri State Senators and members of the Legislature to the fairness of a general sales tax when it comes to raising revenue to carry on the affairs of State. Each one of you know of hundreds in your own community who pay not one cent of taxes of any sort and criticize and cuss the Government for conditions throughout the land. We wish you to pay little attention to paid attorneys and lobbyists who have axes to grind, and think of the folks at home who do now pay most of all the taxes and give us a sales tax that would force every one who eats and buys to pay a little of the tax that is now so oppressive to the middle man who cannot hide his little property. This sales tax we would have passed on the coast to the retailers, a burden to the retailer. In fairness to all spread the tax to reach all.

The past few weeks the editor has received letters from numerous young men and women of Sikeston who are in school in distant parts of the country. These letters were greatly appreciated and this paragraph is to acknowledge receipt of same.

Those of our farmers who are seeking finances from the Federal Government to take care of farm mortgages must bear in mind that no money is loaned on farm lands in drainage districts that have outstanding bonds.

The funeral of Alfred Marion Hardy, better known as "Shorty," was preached by Rev. Orear at the Albritton Undertaking Parlors, Sunday morning. It was a good funeral sermon and Rev. Orear had a good subject. This young man had been an employee of the Malone Theatre for more than ten years, and a trusted employee. He was known as truthful, honest and honorable in his dealings and while he had not laid up much of this world's goods, had made a name and practiced deeds while on earth that will insure him a welcome in the hereafter. It was better to have left behind a good name than riches.

Bulldogs Defeated by Chaffee Last Friday

The Chaffee high school Red Devils won their second game of the season last Friday night on the local field when they defeated the Bulldogs 13 to 0. Both of the Chaffee scores were made in the third quarter. In only one quarter, the first, did the Bulldogs outplay the visitors. The Red Devils took the second and third quarters by large margins and moved out in the final quarter with a slight lead. At no time did the Bulldogs seriously threaten to score.

Five of the Sikeston first string men were not in the game for various reasons. Included in these were the quarterback, fullback, left end, left guard, and the center. A noticeable failure of the Bulldogs to furnish their backs the proper interference on running plays probably accounted for the lack of their usual gains. The majority of the Chaffee gains were due to good ball totting by the backs as they had no exceptional interference. The Sikeston lads merely failed to check this destructive open field running.

The Bulldogs are scheduled to play at New Madrid next Friday, but this game may be switched to Sikeston under the floodlights. Final arrangements for this game have not been completed.

The opening kickoff went to the Sikeston 20 yard line and Bennett returned to the Sikeston 38 yard line. After gaining about 2 yards Sikeston punted to the Chaffee 18 yard line. Chaffee advanced 3 yards and punted to the Sikeston 40 yard line and Donnell returned 7 yards. The Bulldogs gained 25 yards and punted from the Chaffee 24 yard line over the goal line. Chaffee took the ball on their own 20 yard mark and moved up eight yards as the first quarter ended.

After advancing 16 yards more Cline fumbled and Sikeston recovered on the 50 yard mark. Sikeston moved up 4 yards and Bennett's punt was partly blocked and Chaffee recovered on their 46 yard mark.

After advancing 10 yards Morgan fumbled and Sikeston recovered on their 45 yard line. After moving 20 yards Sikeston lost the ball to Chaffee on the Chaffee 35 yard line. Chaffee advanced 50 yards to the Sikeston 15 yard mark as the half ended.

The kickoff went to the Chaffee 22 yard line and Harrell returned to the 48 yard line. On a mixture of line plays Chaffee moved 52 yards to the goal line for the first touchdown. The pass for the extra point was not counted because the Chaffee passer let his knee touch the ground after he had possession of the ball. The kickoff

Diehlstadt Basket Squad Hit Light by Graduation

E. E. Grader, coach of the girls' basketball team of Diehlstadt high school, was probably hit the lightest by graduation of any coach in the surrounding country, having lost but one regular from the line-up. Miss Gae Spencer, a guard, will be the only one Coach Grader has to look for a successor to.

For Howard Grader has already famous Malone sisters, Jo and Gay. Jo has been making the all-star team for the past two years, while Gay was named last season. Elsie Mae Gillier and Halie Suter will hold down center positions, with Christine Collier as the remaining guard.

Scott McBride to Speak at Anti Meet Here Tuesday

"Break That Line" is the subject of the address to be given by Dr. F. Scott McBride of Washington, D. C. General Superintendent of The Anti-Saloon League of America, who will speak at a mass meeting under the auspices of the churches, clubs and dry organizations of Sikeston, Mo.

This meeting will be held in the Baptist Church, Tuesday evening, November 14th, at 7:30 o'clock.

As General Superintendent of The Anti-Saloon League of America, Dr. F. Scott McBride has had an exceptional opportunity to learn the inside facts about the fight of the liquor forces against the 18th Amendment.

To his office in the shadow of the Capitol dome at Washington have come reports from Anti-Saloon League Superintendents and officials throughout the United States, while at the same time he has been kept in close touch with all developments relative to prohibition in the various Government Departments, in Congress, and in the White House. No one is better able than Dr. McBride to expose and explain the combination of forces now active against prohibition.

Dr. McBride attended both the Republican and Democratic National Conventions at Chicago where wet plans were forced into the

CHURCH APPRECIATION DAY TO BE OBSERVED IN NAZARENE CHURCHES

Church Appreciation Day will be observed in the 2,000 churches of the Nazarene tomorrow, Rev. C. F. Transue, pastor of the Sikeston Church of the Nazarene, announced. Certain features of the history of the church will be emphasized on this fourth Silver Jubilee Anniversary celebration Sunday.

The official beginning of the church was twenty-five years ago at Pilot Point, Texas, where the Pentecostal Churches of America and the Holiness Church of Christ became a part of the present organization. Since then, the church rolls have grown to contain more than 100,000 names, with about 3,500 ministers, and foreign missionary work extending around the world.

Progress attained in the quarter century covers a wide field, now operating 2,000 churches scattered throughout the United States and Canada. These churches, parsonages, as well as other property of the church, now have a value of 13 1-2 million dollars. Schools and colleges owned by the church account for 1 1-2 million dollars. The revenue of the church totals 3 1-2 million dollars annually.

Among the institutions maintained by the church are six colleges, two junior colleges and Bible schools. These points of learning are: Eastern Nazarene College, Wollaston, Mass.; Treveck College, Nashville, Tenn.; Olivet College, Bethany, Okla.; Northwest Nazarene College, Nampa, Idaho; Pasadena College, Pasadena, Calif.; Bresee College, Hutchinson, Kan.; and Northern Bible College, Red Deer, Alberta, Canada, the latter two being Bible schools.

In addition, the church operates three hospitals—Bresee Hospital, Chicago; Raleigh-Fitkin Memorial Hospital, Africa; Nazarene Sanatorium, Nampa, Idaho, as well as Rest Cottages at Kansas City and Pilot Point, Texas.

From the church publishing house in Kansas City twenty periodicals are issued with an annual circulation of 8 million copies. These consist of eight weeklies, which include the Herald of Holiness, the official church paper; 5 monthlies and 7 quarterlies. The publishing house is valued at more than 1-4 million dollars and its annual sales amount to another quarter million annually. Mr. M. Lunn is manager of the publishing house.

Quite appropriately, the trade mark of the Nazarene Publishing House typifies purposes and aims of the church as well as its work of co-ordination in many branches of endeavor. This design is a lamp resting upon an open Bible illuminating the globe with the slogan, "The Full Gospel to the Whole World by the Printed Page."

Prisoners in Stoddard Jail Riot and Fire Beds

Bloomfield, Oct. 27.—Evidently knowing Sheriff George Barham was away deer hunting, prisoners in the county jail staged a fruitless, but damaging riot Thursday afternoon.

Virtually all of the bedding in the bastille was burned by the prisoners, who slammed doors and banged bars of the jail as smoke poured from the brick structure, which is located one block east of the court house. Chief Deputy Sheriff Les Bollinger was out in the county serving papers at the time. Mrs. Barham, wife of the sheriff, who was in the portion of the building which they used as their residence, remained until the deputy returned, as the demonstration was at its height.

It is presumed the prisoners, all men, sought to frighten Mrs. Barham into opening doors of the jail, so that a general jail delivery might have been effected. There were 15 prisoners in jail at the time.

Two of the 15 were believed by Deputy Bollinger to have led the outbreak, and both were placed in cells. The prisoners, including two Negroes, had been in the "bull pen" when the riot started. All the 15 were forced to sleep almost without bedding last night. They were also made to clean the charred mattresses and blankets from the jail.

Sheriff Barham left early Thursday for a hunt in the Ozarks. He has not yet returned.

Women's Club Federation to Meet Here in '34

The Ninth District, Missouri Federation of Woman's Clubs, in session at Poplar Bluff last week, selected Sikeston as the place to hold their next annual convention.

Mrs. Nelle Smith of Poplar Bluff was named president of the Ninth District, Missouri Federation of Women's Clubs. She succeeds Mrs. C. L. Joslyn, Charleston, Mrs. C. E. Carleton of Farmington was named first vice president and Mrs. O. L. Spencer, Benton, second vice president. Other officers are appointive.

In her address to the assembly, Mrs. Joslyn expressed her pleasure at the growth of the federation during the past year. She recalled the fact that the ninth district has four representatives on the state board. The district president attends. Mrs. K. C. Weber, Farmington, is state chairman of conservation and roadside beautification; Mrs. H. F. Emerson, Morley, is state chairman of legislation, and the recording secretary is a member of the state organization.

One of the high spots in the session was awarding prizes for art contest, which was in charge of Mrs. H. P. Kinsolving of Malden. First prize was awarded to Mrs. Ada Pulse Thost of Fredericktown, for her picture "The Canal Scene," a water color. Honorable mention was to Mrs. Cora Erwin Adkins of Malden. Her entry was a tapestry, "Girls at the Fountain." More than 40 entries were viewed by hundreds of persons during the exhibition which was at the First Presbyterian Church.

Motorists Treated Here After Auto Wrecks

W. A. Dooley, of St. Louis, is in the hospital here suffering from a scalp wound and several fractured ribs received when his car was sideswiped by another machine about two miles north of Benton, Sunday night.

Dooley, who is a representative of the Glidden Paint & Varnish Co., was enroute south at the time of the accident.

The other car was driven by Charles V. Cox of Mt. Olive, Miss., who was accompanied by his wife. Both were seriously injured. Mrs. Cox died at 7:20 Monday morning at the Southeast Missouri Hospital, Cape Girardeau, where they were taken from the accident. Cox suffered a fractured skull.

Bern Cramer and Ollie Miller of Poplar Bluff who were riding in the Dooley car were also treated here for slight injuries. At this time no explanation of the accident has been offered.

Man and Wife in Hospital. H. W. Sanders and wife of Madison, Wis., are in the Sikeston Hospital with numerous cuts and bruises following a collision with a car occupied by negroes. The wreck occurred about 7 miles south of Sikeston Sunday afternoon at 6:30 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Sanders, who were enroute to Balboa in the Canal Zone, crashed into the side of the negro's car when the latter drove directly across the highway. The accident was unavoidable.

Neither Sanders nor his wife are seriously injured. Both cars were badly wrecked.

Park Goes To Bat For Relief Program

Tuscumbia, Mo., Oct. 28.—In his newly assumed role of "the fighting Governor," Guy B. Park, went to bat here today for his state relief proposals, including the sales tax.

The Governor voiced threats to expose any members of the Legislature should they succumb to the influence of the utility lobbyists during enactment of a relief program.

He also threw down the gauntlet to any merchant association opposing the raising of additional revenue.

"You merchants and others who might be inclined to oppose a sales tax had better decide whether you are opposed to paying a penny on the dollar or permitting women and children to starve," the Governor said in an address at the formal dedication of a $150,000 highway bridge over the Osage River.

"In many of our counties the unemployed are sleeping in hay stacks and on the bare ground, and unless we find a way to raise additional money to match federal funds they will starve."

Vowing that "no Missourian would starve while I'm Governor," he defended the sales tax proposal as offering "a chance for those who have enough money to buy anything to contribute one penny from every dollars to provide food for the starving."

"Any merchant who for no good reason will refuse to do his bit to charity and serve as a collecting agency for the sales tax that we may save our unfortunates from starving is taking a very narrow view," the Governor insisted.

"Surely his patriotism should not end with the posting of a Blue Eagle in his shop window."

FIRST MOTOR CARAVAN IN CHINA STARTS ON THOUSAND-MILE TRIP

Peiping, Oct. 28.—After several years' preparation and the investment of several hundred thousand dollars in equipment, the first motor caravan of the Suiyuan-Sinkiang Bus Company has set forth on the 1,000 mile journey over China's old trade route.

As old as the history of China, this overland trail has seen the passing of camel caravans through the sand dunes and across waste land to the distant capital of Chinese Turkestan. Although attempts have been made to blaze a motor trail, this is the first sound commercial venture to the southwest.

At the start, a ceremony was held at which Gov. Fu Tsoyi and his staff were in attendance, while a high official traveled with the party to afford better protection against the various tax stations and against wandering bands of troops and bandits.

It is hoped to get the fleet of five American motor cars through in 14 days. Many sacks of mail, seven tons of cargo and 20 passengers filled the cars. The fare for the journey is $335, Chinese currency, and will represent a tremendous saving for merchants who in the past were forced to spend months on camel back.

The fate of the fleet is watched with much anxiety by its owners for there have been many notorious seizures of camel caravans in past years. Not so many months ago a camel caravan of 1,200 animals carrying well over $1,000,000 worth of cargo was captured by Mongols and held for many months. It was only released through the mediation of an American whose life has been spent in this desolate country and who was trusted by both Mongols and Chinese alike.

Governmental assistance was given the new service because in addition to the possibilities of new trade development, it constitutes another link in the campaign to bring the Northwest back to an important part of China proper. If it proves successful, it will help in keeping Chinese Turkestan under close rule of the Central Government and also provide a quick way of sending troops there in case trouble with Soviet Russia.

CAPE CENTRAL DOWNS CHARLESTON, 28 TO 0

Charleston, Mo., Oct. 27.—Although the Charleston Blue Jays played the best game of the season, they were up against the best competition they have seen this season, and so went down into a 28-0 defeat. Cape scored two touchdowns in each of the first and last quarters, converting all four extra points. The first score came in the first five minutes of play. McLane, Central left half, circled left end for 19 yards and a touchdown. Gaines place-kicked the extra point. The next score came a few minutes later, Gaines returning Bynum's punt 52 yards for the next touchdown. Bowerman converted with a dropkick. In the 4th period, McLane again circled left end for 20 yards and another touchdown. His place kick was good also. The last score came about a minute later, Schumacher, playing his first football game of his life, and on the second play, intercepted Bynum's pass on the 25 yard line and scored the final touchdown. Gaines converted with a place kick. This was the first game that Charleston had been scored upon.

The most outstanding player on either team was the Charleston quarterback, Sam Cox Goodin. Doing most of the Charleston's ball carrying, pass throwing and tackling, Goodin seems slated for a berth on the all-conference team. Gaines and McLane did most of the ball totting for the Tigers. McLane did the entire punting for the Tigers, punting 12 times for 449 yards, averaging 37 5-12 yards per kick. Bynum averaged 35-59 yards per kick, punting 9 times for 320 yards.

Central outgained the Jays, 141 yards to 104 yards. Charleston lost 31 yards to 6 for Central. The Blue Jays, never showing any passing in the former games, attempted 14, completed 7 for 77 yards. The Tigers attempted 3, completed 2 for 24 yards and intercepted two. Central returned punts for a total of 96 yards to 49 for Charleston. Central registered 11 first downs to 9 for Charleston. Cape suffered 65 yards in penalties to 10 for Charleston.

FATHER

H. O. Anderson was his name,
To us it was so dear,
And how we have missed him
This long lonesome year.

Dear Father lies beneath the sod,
Though he is just at rest,
Of all the men on earth,
God knows we loved him best.

Father was crossing the railroad,
With a load of wheat on his truck,
The train sprang upon him,
And he was fatally struck.

For several yards it dragged him,
Dear people, Oh! how sad
And when I saw him suffering,
I thought it couldn't be Dad.

They took him to the hospital,
He was burned and injured in his head,
Only a few minutes elapsed,
And my dear father was dead.

Dreary old October seventeenth,
And all with eyes full of tears,
May God in Heaven help him
And we'll meet in the coming years.

Sadly missed by family—Violet Anderson.

Giving flowers to be placed on a person's grave bespeaks a feeling of admiration and respect for the departed one. Likewise, saying nice things about a person after they've shuffled off this earth is all good and well. But the trouble of it is, the person for whom the flowers are given, or the nice things are said, can't enjoy the beauty of the flowers or can't hear what a fine person folks thought he was. If you have bouquets to give or think something nice about a person, give them the flowers or tell them what you think before they die off. They'll appreciate them more and you'll feel a lot better over it.—Malden Merit.

One thing that ought to be frowned on and discouraged by every school superintendent, is the practice that has been promoted by a few jewelry houses—that of selling class rings. High powered salesmen are sent out to high schools where they are usually given opportunity to talk to the members of the Senior class. The prospective graduates are in substance told by these salesmen that the Seniors of every wide awake school in the country are ordering rings and that it is next to impossible to have any social or class rating, without a ring. They usually succeed in selling most members of the class. Those who don't readily sign up are made to feel that they will not have quite the proper social standing unless they go along and "get in the swim" with other members who have ordered. The result is that these salesmen usually leave with a hundred per cent order from the class. The rings they sell cost the class members a good deal more than they are really worth. The salesman gets a commission of about 50 per cent and consequently full value is not received by the student-purchaser. The sacrifice that many parents have to make in order to keep their children in school is too great to have non-essential costs like these added.—Bloomfield Vindicator.

In his more than 30 years experience as an undertaker in Charleston, F. D. Lair said the only person who ever entered his place of business and stated he was going to die and wanted him to handle the funeral, was Harry C. Smith, who died in a Cape Girardeau Hospital Sunday. What a God blessed feeling to know that death was just before you and not afraid. We didn't know Mr. Smith but he must have been a God fearing man to be ready and know death was at the door.

WHEN TIMES WERE HARD

A Texas paper recently interviewed one of its readers regarding his reaction to the present economic condition. Here is what the reader is alleged to have said: "Don't talk to me about hard times. I was born eight miles from a railroad, nine miles from a church, five miles from a schoolhouse, 885 miles from New York, 200 yards from a wash hole, 15 feet from a cornfield and 8,767 from Hongkong.

"Our nearest neighbors lived 2 miles away and they couldn't read or write. I never saw a suit of underwear until I was 17 years old, and that revelation didn't belong to anybody in our family. The only book in the house during my early childhood was a Bible and a catalogue somebody sent us.

"There were twelve members in our family, but, you see, we had three rooms to live in, including a kitchen. We thought everybody else in the world had gravy and bread for breakfast, liver and crackin' hoecake for dinner, buttermilk and cornpone for supper, cause that's what we had—and liked it.

"Some of us wore brogan shoes occasionally in the winter time. We had nice white shirts for summer time use. We slept on straw ticks, and pillows were not thought of or required. I didn't know that money would rattle until I was nearly grown. Father got hold of two good half dollars at the same time, and let us hear them rattle. Taxes were not higher, but harder to pay than now.

"We owned two kerosene lamps, neither of which had a chimney. Our house wasn't ceiled, but two of our rooms had lofts in them. We had a glass window in our 'company' room. Our nicest piece of furniture was a homemade rocking chair. Our beds were of the slat or tight-rope variety. The 'trundle bed' took care of all the younguns under five years of age, and it stayed full all the time.

"We went to school two or three months in the year, but not in a bus. We attended church once a month, but not in a car; we used the two-mule wagon. We dressed up on Sundays, but not in silks or satins. We made our own lye hominy; distilled our own lye from our own ash hopper. We drank sassafras tea and never had a yearning for coffee.

"We sopped our own molasses; we ate our own meat; we considered rice a delicacy for only the preacher to eat; we had heard of cheese of course, but never saw any; we got a stick of candy and three raisins for Christmas and were happy; we loved pa and ma and were never hungry, enjoyed going naked, didn't want much, excepted nothing. And that's why our so-called hard times ain't hard on me."

Having read the above, Ed P. Crowe of the Dexter Statesman remembered some of his early experiences with hard times, thus:

"Which reminds me somewhat of our own childhood. We were fifteen years old when we found out that people ate the pork chops as well as the gravy. We got our first sto' bought clothes about this time. Previously, they cut pa's clothes down for John, and John's down for Bob and what Bob left, we wore. Memory paints an adequate shirt with an arrow-pointed tip at the lower end of the bosom to hold the drawers up as union suits and such like were then unknown. When the shirt got to us to claim and wear, it had this written in ink on it:

"1880, E. M. C. (that was pa).
1881, J. M. C.
1882, C. R. C.
1883, R. A. C.
Ed gets it next year."

But even then, we were not so pioneerish as Dwight H. Brown, who plowed the hill-sides of Stoddard county in his shirt tail till he was 16 and then he had to be lassoed and hog-tied to get on him his first pants and pair of shoes, and is now Secretary of State of Missouri. At least this is the story the "First Settlers" here tell of him, and it sounds reasonable though it may be legendary and apocryphal.—Fredericktown Democrat.

AT THE INN OF THE SALT MERCHANTS

London, the largest city in the world, is said by historians to have been built because of the salt trade.

During the earliest days of European history salt was sent from England to the Continent. Cheshire and Worcestershire provided salt for Britain and Gaul, and the route for its transportation crossed the country in a southeasterly direction crossing the Thames which was then very shallow at a ford where Westminster now stands.

Often the sluggish stream was too swollen by floods for the salt caravans to cross and an inn to accommodate the salt merchants was built in order that they might tarry until the waters subsided. From this humble beginning the great city of London resulted.

Salt was used as a medium of exchange in many ancient countries. The Mogul conquerors of India made decrees thousands of years ago regulating the standard of salt that was used for money. In Asia and Africa cakes of salt were frequently used for money and up until comparatively recent times, salt was a medium of exchange in the Shan markets of Indo-China.

Besides its value as a medium of barter, salt in days gone by was a powerful developer of commerce. Being essential to life, and unavailable to tribes remote from the sea from which the substance was obtained by evaporation, trade routes were early developed to provide for its transportation. For hundreds of years a caravan route was maintained between Palmyra and Syrian ports, and even today much of the caravan traffic in Sahara is largely in this precious commodity.

The oldest road in Italy is not the Appian Way, but the "Via Salaria" or the salt road, along which salt was anciently carried from the evaporating pits at Ostia to the Sabine territory.

MISSOURI HISTORY

Courtesy Missouri Historical Society

THE DRAMATIC STORY OF DANIEL RALLS

Even at that time, Daniel Ralls was mortally ill, yet he insisted on being brought into that small room in the Missouri Hotel at St. Louis where the first legislature of the State of Missouri was meeting, and there took part in the election of Barton and Benton as the first two senators of the new State. His vote, cast in favor of the two men who won that election, was the last official act of his life, for he died not long afterwards in St. Louis on October 30, 1820, one hundred and thirteen years ago this week. The name of Daniel Ralls is perpetuated in Missouri history by Ralls county, which was named for him during the same session that witnessed his death.

September 18, 1820, was the election of the State's first two United States Senators. One place was practically assured to David Barton, who had been president of the convention which drafted the State's first Constitution. But the other senatorship was bitterly contested. Among the candidates fighting for the second place were Thomas Hart Benton, John B. C. Lucas, Henry Elliott, John Rice Jones and Nathaniel Cook. Daniel Ralls, one of the representatives from what was then Pike county, was in favor of Barton and Benton for the senatorships, but about September 22, before the election, he was taken seriously ill and was unable to attend the sessions of the general Assembly. As events turned out, Barton had more than enough votes to win one of the places, but Benton had just barely enough votes to win the other position.

It was on Monday, October 2, 1820, at three p. m. that the two houses of the General Assembly met in joint session in the Missouri Hotel to hold the historic election. Benton's victory over his nearest opponent, Judge Lucas, seems to have depended primarily on getting one representative, Marie F. Leduc, a Frenchman from St. Louis, to vote for Benton instead of for Judge Lucas.

Daniel Ralls, unable for several days to attend the sessions because of sickness, insisted that day, on coming to vote at the election. According to the story of John F. Darby of St. Louis, Ralls was carried into the Legislative hall in his sick-bed by four stout Negro men, and after voting, was returned to his room in the Missouri Hotel where he died. But the contemporary newspapers give a slightly different version of the event:

"...He insisted on being carried to the legislative hall, for the express purpose of voting for Colonel Benton and Judge Barton, as Senators for the State of Missouri in Congress. Leaning on the supporting arm of the friend who accompanied him, the dying patriot with a determined serenity of look, and in an energetic tone, said to him 'If I should faint in the House, endeavor to recover me there, and by no means take me out before I have given my vote.' When the vote was taken, both Leduc and Ralls were among the Benton voters. Twenty-seven votes were necessary for election, and Col. Benton received exactly twenty-seven. By such a narrow margin was the great statesman of Missouri, United States Senator for thirty years, first elected.

Daniel Ralls never again attended a session of the General Assembly after that dramatic election on October 2. According to some writers, he died almost immediately after casting his vote, but this assertion is not correct. Ralls lingered on until October 30, when he died at the home of Col. Benton. He was buried the next day in St. Louis at 4 o'clock, and the members of the General Assembly attended his funeral and resolved to wear black crepe on their arms for thirty days in his honor. On November 16, 1820, a bill was approved creating the county of Ralls from the county of Pike in honor of Daniel Ralls.

Ralls was a native of Virginia who moved to Kentucky and settled near Sharpsburg in Bath county. It is said that Ralls and his family moved to the Territory of Missouri in October, 1817, settling in St. Louis county but moving a year later to what was then Pike county, near New London.

At the time of his election as a representative of Pike county in the first General Assembly, Ralls was said to be about thirty-five years old. It is probable that he had seen military service, for newspaper referred to him as "Captain." Ralls and his wife had five children, one of whom was John Ralls, a prominent lawyer of Ralls county.

FLOUR TOO HIGH; MANY GOOD SUBSTITUTES

The high cost of white flour, apparently unjustified, makes it necessary for many homes to seriously consider some good substitutes.

The family gardens and field crops produce and can supply these substitutes some of which are superior to flour as a health providing food. Corn breads should be used as much as possible. Indian pudding, custards and fruits may be utilized for desserts, instead of cakes, pies and other foods requiring flour, according to nutritionists connected with University of Arkansas College of Agriculture. Use sweet potatoes oftener. They furnish as valuable carbohydrates as bread does. Rice can be used as a substitute for flour. Above all, utilize dried beans and peas and peanuts in as many ways as possible. Beans and peas will take the place of bread and meat. Peanuts are bread, meat and potatoes, as far as food values are concerned.

Extension Circular No. 312, "The Preparation of Beans and Peas," tells how to use these economical foods. In any recipe which calls for dried beans, dried peas may be substituted. There is a great abundance of cowpeas, sweet potatoes, peanuts and rice in this state. They should be utilized to the fullest extent.

Extension Circular No. 197, recently revised, tells how to utilize rice in a great variety of ways. Extension Circular No. 122, which was revised in April gives suggestions for using sweet potatoes. By the use of these substitutes the excessive prices demanded now for white flour can be saved and this saving used to far greater advantage.

No one even attempts to justify the excessive prices demanded now for many of the necessities in the home. It appears that an ill-advised attempt is being made to increase the prices of necessities without waiting for a corresponding increase of income to justify higher prices.

TOMB OF MOSES REPORTED UNCOVERED ON MOUNT NEBO

Jerusalem, Oct. 27.—A stone alleged by early Christians to mark the tomb of Moses has been found by the Franciscan archeological expedition working on Mount Nebo.

The Bible states that Moses was buried on Mount Nebo after he had led the children of Israel within sight of the Promised Land. The ruins of a church dating from the fifth century has been found on the mountain. The last end of the church is said to go back to the fourth century.

This church, the archeologists say, was visited by St. Sylvia of Aquitaine an early Christian pilgrim, who wrote a description of it. The stone pointed out to St. Sylvia as the tomb of Moses was found in front of the pulpit.

During the president's press conference it developed that the president is opposed to the treasury's position regarding the repeal law mainly as a new source of income.

The president's attitude is that while liquor should be made to pay its way, it should not be so burdened with taxation as to prevent consumers from buying legitimate stock.

The Bureau of Fisheries has made a study of the problem of barnacles and finds that American shipping owners, including Uncle Sam, pay dearly for the tons of barnacles that attach themselves to vessel bottoms. A ship at sea from six to eight months accumulates a growth of from two to three inches, weighing from fifty to one hundred tons. The results are loss of speed, increased fuel consumption, delayed voyages, wear of machinery and drydock inactivity.

Relieves Women's Pains

Here is an example of how Cardul has helped thousands of women: "I was very thin and pale," writes Mrs. F. H. Scott, of Roanoke, Va. "I suffered from weakness and a severe pain in my back. This pain unnerved me, and I did not feel like doing my work. I did not care to go places, and felt worn, tired, day after day. "My mother had taken Cardul, and on seeing my condition she advised me to try it. I have never regretted doing so. I took three bottles and it built me up. I gained in weight, my color was better and the pain left my back. I am stronger than I had been in some time." Cardul is sold by local druggists.

FARMER SAVES $20 BY MAKING THREE TELEPHONE CALLS

A farmer had 2,000 pounds of hogs to sell.

He telephoned three dealers. The third dealer called offered the farmer a cent a pound more than the first, and a half cent more than the second. So he sold to the third dealer, obtaining the higher price.

The amount earned by telephoning was $20—nearly the cost of his telephone for an entire year.

TELEPHONE SERVICE BENEFITS BOTH FARM AND TOWN

Telephone service links farm and town homes and places of business so that farmers and business men can buy and sell to advantage . . . so that friends and relatives can keep in touch with each other. The telephone saves time and trips, protects life and property, helps those who use it make money and get more happiness out of life.

In an emergency, the telephone may be worth more than it costs in a life time.
